A word from our Pro..

LACEY FEARS, PGA

Head Golf Professional

Members,

We've all seen pros get upset when they get out into the fairway after a perfect drive only to find their ball in a divot. When this happens to you, don't waste your time getting mad. Instead, think of it almost as you would a normal shot, but move the ball slightly back in your stance and select one more club than normal. Don't attempt to swing down on the ball more than usual, but instead, think about tracing the depth of the existing divot. Let your arms be loose through impact rather than tense, and you'll find they extend down and through nicely. Remember, solid contact is the key here, not muscle power. Try this on the golf course and let me know how it works!

SCOTT PALMER Golf Course Superintendent

This month we will continue with normal maintenance on the golf course. We will continue with putting surfaces topdressing and vertical mowing and brushing. Foliar feeding regularly along with wetting agent applications and plant growth regulators on same. Cross cutting tees and fairways will continue along with weed control efforts in selective areas. Hand watering along with normal irrigation has been implemented on hard to wet areas. Hopefully by now we have had at least some precipitation. Our irrigation system is at its best when supported by rainfall.
