On the Course...

JAY HARRELSON Assistant Golf Course Superintendent

This month will bring a fluctuation of warm and cold temperatures which will dramatically slow the growth of bermuda grass and result in firmer and faster putting surfaces as winter approaches. Please continue repairing divots and ball marks. Grow-in of the perineal rye grass over seeded fairways and driving range tee will quickly take place as temperatures drop and seed begins to germinate. We will begin mowing less frequently and detail blowing will begin as leaves begin to fall. Winter weed control will continue to be applied and fungicides along with low rate foliar fertilizers will be applied to greens as necessary. Preparation of flower beds for the winter will conclude, winter pruning will continue and mulched areas will be finished. Be sure to tell the crew how much you appreciate their hard work throughout this past summer when you see them!
